NAME OF CLUB	DESCRIPTION & DETAILS
Political Science Club	Create an environment where people interested in political science are able to speak freely and converse in respectful discussions. We seek more civic engagement and a deeper understanding of the government.
OC Robotics	OC Robotics provides students with hands-on experience in mechanical design, electronics, software, and science. Our focus is developing a Mars rover that can navigate difficult terrain, pick up objects with a mechanical arm, and test soil for signs of life. We are working towards competing in the University Rover Challenge.
Mudslingers	Its primary objective shall be to encourage a stronger ceramic dialog that creates awareness about the importance of ceramics in our culture and our daily lives.
Coast Consulting Club	To provide Orange Coast College students with hands-on consulting experience by partnering with local small businesses around campus to deliver free strategy and marketing solutions while developing professional skills in business analysis, client communication, and leadership that prepare members for future careers in consulting and entrepreneurship.
MicroMouse Club	Our goal is to prepare for the IEEE Region 6 Competition. The competition challenges teams to build a robot that can solve a center-finish maze in the fastest time possible. The mouse must be fully autonomous — no Wi-Fi or Bluetooth allowed during runs — and fit within a 25cm × 25cm footprint. Throughout the project, you'll work with microcontrollers, design and manufacture PCBs, learn to solder, and implement maze-solving algorithms. We'll also cover industry practices and skills that are directly relevant to embedded systems roles.
Geoadventure Club	Its primary objective shall be to engage students with the natural world around them, fostering an understanding and appreciation of physical, cultural, and world geography through both on-campus and off-campus events. The club aims to offer off-campus opportunities this semester such as hikes and even a camping trip to empower students with practical, real-world knowledge regarding geography and the outdoors.
